PE Film & Aluminium Foil packaging

Polyethylene is the material used for over half of all films today, and low-density polyethylene (LDPE) is the source of most poly bags. Bags manufactured with LDPE is great for its great tensile strength, clarity, flexibility and water barrier. It is also resistant to most caustic compounds.

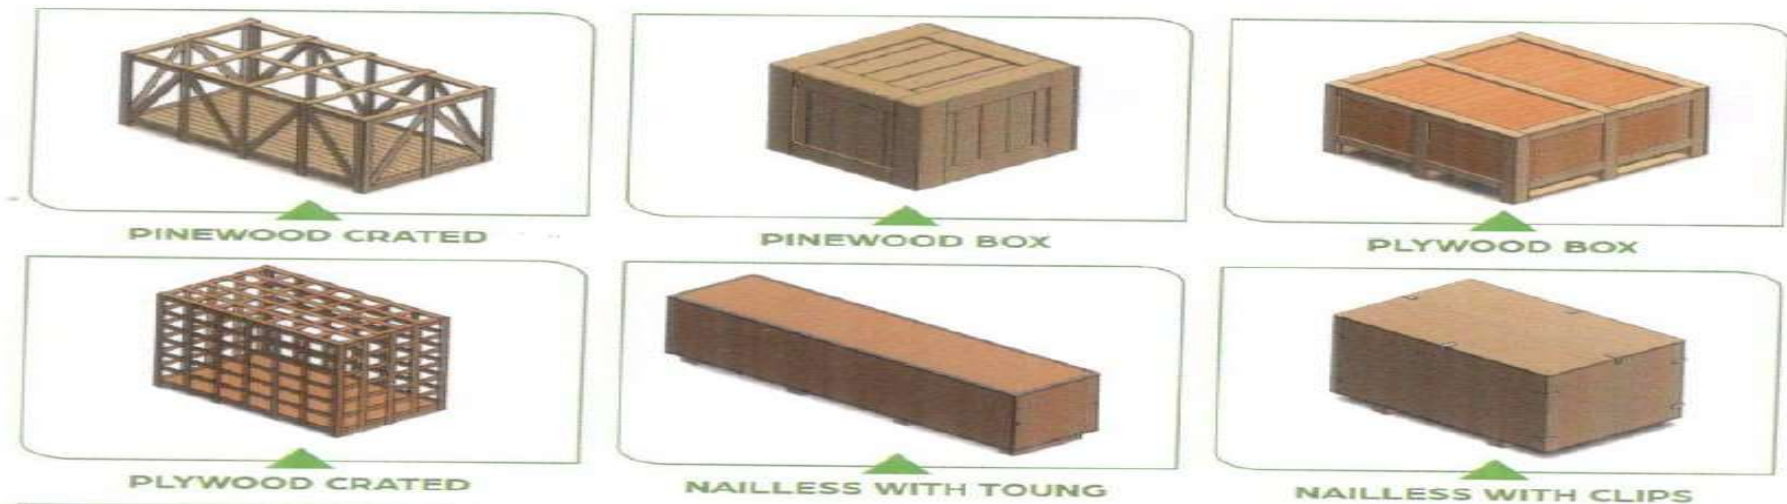

Aluminum foil provides a complete barrier to light, oxygen, moisture and bacteria. For this reason, foil is used extensively in food and pharmaceutical packaging. It is also used to make aseptic packaging that enables storage of perishable goods without refrigeration.
